IT WAS A VERY FINE GAME

The Score Stood Two to One in Portsmouth's Favor.

Moynihan and Packard Did Excellent Work. They Received Good Support. Bunching Three Hits in the Seventh is What Won for the "Truckers."

It was a glorious fight—one fraught with all the excitement necessary to make those nervously inclined have a slight fluttering or genuine palpitation of the heart, and smothered exclamations of fear from the ladies, mingled with the loud and intensely euphonic shouts and expressions of the "rooters" made yesterday's afternoon game at the park one long to be remembered. The "Farmers" and the "Truckers" were the contending factors, and from the very moment that Empire Phenix called play, it was plainly seen that both clubs had reached the park with but one determination, one purpose, and that was to hotly contest every inch of ground in the struggle for the mastery yesterday's battle on the diamond. There was a very fair sized audience present, who seemed to enter into the spirit that prevailed among the players, and nothing was said or done to mar the pleasure of the occasion.

The players had no time to make themselves disagreeable, it took every moment they had to watch the points of the game, and so faithfully did each and every one engaged in the struggle acquit themselves that neither found an opportunity to make a successful move on the other until the seventh inning. Up to this time neither side had been successful in sending a man across the plate. Moynihan, who occupied the box for the home boys, was never in better form. He had plenty of speed, good wide control, and what was best of all, good control of the ball, and he just literally had the boys from the peanut section at his mercy, they only having four hits to their credit up to the ninth inning. He demonstrated yesterday, beyond the peradventure of a doubt, that he is a "twirler" of more than ordinary ability and is able to hold his own with any who toss the sphere in this section.

Packard, who did the stellar work for the visitors, also did excellent execution, but he was unfortunate in having the "Truckers" bunch three hits in the seventh, which did the business, and caused the "Farmers" to once more drink the bitter dregs of defeat.

It happened this way: Caville hit for one bag, little Billy Hallman made a beautiful sacrifice, which advanced Caville to second; "Giggy" McGann lined one out over "short," Caville went to third, McGann stole second. Everybody was intensely interested. There was one man out and a man on third and one on second. Everybody looked to see who was up next. In a moment Mangan walked briskly to the plate, "squared," as is his wont when waiting for a good one to come over. He was patient, but spoiled several before he got one just where he wanted it. It finally came "back" and away "whizzed" the leather along the left field line for two bases, Caville and McGann scoring amid the cheers of the people.

The blenchers especially going in ecstasy, bats went up in the air, "good boy" Mangan, "you're a corker," "that's the stuff," "we want you next season" and other exclamations of delight were heard and enjoyed. The colored "rooters" were not silent, oh, no, "they had their say." "Youse kin play ball, dat was you kin, say dar, ax Mr. Packum, de pitcher, if he don't want to get quanted wid youse sun mo," and other such amusing remarks were indulged in. Even the big red faced man with a wart on his nose, grew so generous that he allowed a little red headed archer to get a glance of the scene through his point of vantage, the knot hole he claims in the centre field fence. Mangan died on third, however, as the next two men went out on flies to the outfield.

This was all the home lads got, but that was enough, and for eight innings the "champions" of last season were blanked and already the boys had begun to cry "who's got an egg." But "Tommy" Turner co-workers fooled the boys and they did it after this fashion. Smith went out from Fuller to Mangan, Keefe reached first on a hit over second, O'Brien sneaked in a hit and Keefe went to third and scored on Lyons out from Hall to Mangan, O'Brien stole a base, reaching third. There was then two men out and O'Brien on third. Packard up, who hit a foul fly just over the third base line which "Snapper" Fuller would have gotten but for the interference of O'Brien. Mr. Phelan saw the act and promptly called Packard out, thus ending both the suspense and the game, which went to Portsmouth by the close margin of two to one.

For the Legislature.
PORTSMOUTH, Va., August 26, 1895.
Editor of The Norfolk Virginian.
The city of Portsmouth has several masters of vital interest to her citizens and to her material welfare which are likely to be brought before the Legislature next winter, and therefore, it is essential that she should be represented in the House of Delegates by a man who is thoroughly identified with her and who possesses the necessary qualifications for the position. With out meaning to disparage other gentlemen whose names have been mentioned in connection with the office, I think Mr. Charles T. Bland would make an efficient representative. He is industrious, energetic and intelligent and is thoroughly identified with the city in all of its interests. The voters should give weight to these considerations when selecting the party candidate. Mr. Bland could be relied on to attend closely to his duties and would be always on hand where he might be needed. Very respectfully,
M. L. H.

Gored by a Steer.
Yesterday morning a drove of cattle came on board the ferry boat on the Norfolk side of the river en route to Portsmouth. Some of them made a break for the safety gates and would probably have gone overboard if a deck hand named White had not hit one of them a heavy blow on the head, causing him to stop. Soon afterwards White was attacked by a steer and knocked senseless and trampled upon by some of the cattle before he was picked up. He was not seriously hurt, but was bruised in several places.

Charged With Stealing a Watch.

Yesterday afternoon Deputy High Constable Willie Warren arrested two negro men, who were charged with stealing a watch from a man at the Atlantic and Daaville Railroad warehouse in Gosport. It seems that a white man, whose name we did not learn, was at work on the wharf and hung his vest with his watch in his pocket up on a post. Two negro men were sitting near there for some time, after awhile one of them asked him what time it was, he went to his vest, pulled out his watch and told them and went back to work. The men continued to sit there, but after a while left. Soon afterwards the owner of the watch went to see what time it was and found his watch and part of the chain gone. Constable Warren was notified a description of the men was given him, and in a short while he succeeded in finding both men. They claimed that they did not have the watch, but the owner said that no other person came near where he was at work except the two negroes. The men were looked up, but up to last night the watch had not been recovered.

The Supposed Drowned Men Turned Up at Night.

On Wednesday last four gentlemen from this city went down the river on a fishing frolic, intending to remain three or four days. On Saturday a fisherman who came up reported having seen a boat which answered the description of the one in which they went down on, bottom upwards in the bay, with no one on board. A rumor was started that all of the men were drowned. The families of the men were greatly distressed. Sunday during the day the men all returned home well and heartily and was surprised to learn that such a rumor had been circulated. They said that they were in Little Bay Saturday and Sunday up to the time they started home.

Deed Placed on Record.

Yesterday the deed for the warehouse and wharf property of Peters & Read which was sold at public auction some ago and was knocked to Judge L. R. Watts for $60,000, was placed on record in the Hustings Court. Mr. Charles Sharp the trustee, conveying the same to Wm. H. Peters for the consideration of $60,000. This ends the speculation as to whom Judge Watts bought the property for.

E. Owen. The remains were interred in Oak Grove Cemetery. The pallbearers were Carroll Myers, John Grant, Sidney Deming and Cecil Spence.

PRACTICAL TARIFF REFORM.

Agricultural Products Raised in Price and Wages Increased.
Higher praise could not be bestowed upon a political party than that which is implied in the daily reports of industrial revivals and wage increases, remarks the St. Louis Republic in a recent editorial.

Take, for instance, a summary published in The Globe-Democrat Saturday. In the great manufacturing district of the country, embracing New England and the middle states, this is the condition reported:

"More than 80 important industrial undertakings, which had been idle, have started up since April 1, giving employment to 30,000 operatives and workmen. Some of these have already enjoyed advances in wages, voluntarily offered in most instances. The reports show that at the points covered no fewer than 140,000 industrial employees are receiving higher wages than they were getting two months ago, an average improvement of nearly 10 per cent. During the like period only 31,000 industrial employees in the region specified had struck for any reason, and of this total only 21,000 for higher wages."

In the interior manufacturing district, between Cleveland on the east and Denver on the west, 90 important establishments have started their wheels since April 1, new employment has been furnished to 21,000 persons, and the wages of 28,000 more have been raised about 10 per cent.

And this is the result of practical tariff reform and Democratic rule.
Agricultural products have all risen in price. Cotton and corn, the two great sources of farm profit, have reached higher points than for several years.

When the Democratic party took hold, trade had suffered from the McKinley tariff, and confidence in the government's currency had been shaken by wastefulness and blunders. The Republican party was too well under way to be at once stopped.

Two years have passed and the Republican wrecks have been cleared away. The Democratic tariff is raising wages and proving that McKinleyism is the enemy of American labor. Freely moving, natural trade gives the highest returns and the steady employment. Manufacturing progress has never depended upon the high protection which breeds trusts and shutdowns.

Lower tariffs make higher wages. Prohibitive tariffs and pauper wages go together everywhere. The hum of the mill is the Democratic doctrine of tariff for revenue set to music.

A SEVERE WINTER.

While We Swelter the Antipodeans Are Having the Coldest Weather.
Mail advices from Australia say that from all parts of that land word is received of severe cold and terrible suffering, many running rivers and large harbors being frozen over for the first time in 30 years.

On the 4th of July Lyttleton harbor, New Zealand, was covered with a thin sheet of ice. Since then the ice has become so thick that men and teams are passing to and fro. This has not occurred before in the memory of the oldest settler.

A telegram from Broken Hill district tells of suffering from cold and hunger among the miners. The government has sent $1,000 for immediate relief, and more financial assistance is to follow. From many other mining districts comes the same news of distress, and the suffering among the poor is worse than it was during the troublesome times of last summer.

A telegram from Berry, South Australia, states that the weather is terribly cold, the thermometer registering lower than it has in 30 years. Berry river is frozen over.

At Bombala the ice is two inches thick on Bombala river. For the first time in the history of the city hundreds of people were skating on the river. Fuel is very scarce, and the city authorities are providing for a large part of the population.

At Guildford, N. S. W., all the water taps in the city burst. There is a scarcity of fuel and universal distress. The thermometer reached the lowest point it ever reached before in that town.

At Moruya, South Australia, there is scarcely any water at all for cattle or men. It is extremely dry and bitterly cold. A large number of people are living on a few drops of water a day.

At Wentworth the weather is very dry and extremely cold. There is not much business being done. Citizens are helping each other in the struggle for existence through the terrible weather.

Similar reports are coming in from almost all parts of the colonies. Drought is prevalent in almost every place where the cold wave has struck.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Mental Wreck From a Cosmetic.

From Russellville, Ky., comes a sad story reported by the Chicago Tribune. The desire to make her complexion more beautiful has caused a once proud mind to be shrouded in the darkest gloom. Miss Mary Belcher, two years ago, was a bright, dark haired, happy, rosy cheeked girl. One day she read in an advertisement of a cosmetic paste that would make the complexion perfect. She bought some and used it for two weeks as directed. At the end of that time she was horrified to notice the appearance of a black beard all over her face. It grew rapidly, and in a short time she had a heavy set of whiskers. She grew hysterical, and about six months ago her mind began to fail under the constant worry. She is now a mental wreck. Miss Belcher is 22 years old and lives with her parents at Sugar Grove, Butler county.

Miss Marion Talbot.

Miss Marion Talbot went into the practical side of sanitation with an energy that proved her sincerity, and which also soon converted her into an authority. She studied the plumber's trade, thinking to be a proficient artisan at this branch of labor, but found it too hard an occupation for a woman. Her practical knowledge of plumbing is, as may be guessed, of great value to her in her work, first, as professor of sanitation, and now as dean of Chicago university.

Women and Economics.

A cultivated Gotham woman urges in a published letter that newspapers do more to commend economics to women in order that it may form part of the tuition of a home whose intelligence lessens all the after life and affects the interests of its children. She asks, "Why not have a column devoted to economics for women, or rather to attract women, or, if that be not feasible, why not intersperse the 'fashion' column with economic doctrines?"

It Makes 4-5 Snapper.

To think of chills and fever. But when we really have it—supposing us to be unfortunate—our frames undergo a series of prodigious work, which leads us to these words: "We are chilled by perspiration afterward. 'Tis a delectable condition of things. But how easy to remedy and how speedily!" The certain means of relief is Hostetter's Stomach Bitter. Tested as well where malaria is prevalent in its most virulent form, as where it takes on a milder guise, it has proved itself to possess both a remedial and preventive efficacy of the highest order. In South America, Guatemala, Mexico and the isthmus of Panama, no less than throughout the North American continent, its success as a means of forestalling and relieving malarial disease has been unparalleled. Use the Bitter for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness and kidney trouble, nervousness and debility.

UP TO DATE STRIKE.

Replete With Songs and a Regular Strike Newspaper.

In consequence of the recent strikes among the different garment makers' unions in New York a strike literature has appeared. It is in both prose and poetry and deals of course with the fight between the garment workers and the contractors. Jargon is the language in which it is printed, and Jewish boy hawk it along the streets. Part of one of the songs, roughly translated, is as follows:

The conflict has been long and fierce. We have fought for our homes and daily bread. They have fought that they may grind their riches from our sweat. In the right we have fought and won the battle. Children of labor, with the right we shall always win.

Our needles shall be daggers and our scissors swords. In the good time, to come we shall sweep the oppressor away.

Some of the songs are distinctly anarchistic, but these are printed on small sheets. A strike newspaper has been published, and it is strange to hear the east side newsboys shouting out their long announcements in jargon, concluding with the familiar "Extry, extry."

National Mexican College of Medicine.

The homeopaths in Mexico City are jubilant over securing governmental recognition for their school of medicine. It is now two years since General Diaz became interested in homeopathy, on viewing its successful use in his family, and gave his consent to establish a homeopathic hospital in that city. The hospital has shown such excellent results as to greatly gratify the president. He has issued a decree giving governmental sanction to the establishment of a national homeopathic college of medicine and surgery, which will be finely equipped and in which students may have the same severe and ample course of training as in allopathic colleges of medicine.—New York Times.

Women in search of titles might do well to go to Poland. It is said that in Warsaw alone, with a population of 500,000, there are 30,726 persons belonging to the hereditary nobility and 9,257 "personal nobles," people entitled to the distinction by reason of office or discovery. There are said to be as many princes in Poland as in Russia. In the latter country they are found plying every trade. According to the last census, there are now living nearly 1,000 Princes and Princesses Galitzin. There are hardly sufficient names in Russia to distinguish them and great confusion results.—New York Tribune.
